

While the editors and their assistants are busy as bees in their sanctum, there is an exclusively ramified machinery going on out of doors, with a view to laying before the individual who invests two cents in a copy of the paper, the latest news. We do not refer to the messages that are coming with lightning speed over the magic wires that are spread abroad like a net to catch intelligence, nor to the locomotives and steamers that are rushing along with the speed of the wind, each one bringing its share of news. We refer more particularly to the outside force of news-gleaners which is directly and exclusively in the employ of the office. The doings of the business world in the markets and in finances are noted down by competent hands, and its record finds a place in the columns of the newspapers. The lawyer whose head aches with the perplexities of a law case, is met in the street when he leaves the court room by a news boy, who shows him in print the words which half an hour before, perhaps, fell from the lips of the judge on the bench, or a witness on the stand. The citizen who witnesses an appalling accident, or sees a conflagration raging, gives up in despair, after striving to learn some single essential fact relating to the exciting event. If it is a fire that is burning, he can scarcely get near enough to the blazing building to learn the name of its occupant; the newspaper an hour afterwards, informs him of the origin and extent of the fire, who are the losers, and what is the extent of their losses, and how much is covered by insurance. The reporter must not only obtain the particulars of events that are generally known, but he must discover the events themselves and have prompt reports of the burnings, the breaks down, the arrests, the meetings, the speeches, the hangings, the merry makings, even although all are occurring at the same moment, and all in different sections of the city.

But even all this machinery of news getting and literary labor is scarcely equal to the mechanical toil expended upon every issue of a newspaper. The editors and the reporters send up their leading articles and their news items as rapidly as they can be prepared; the telegraphic dispatches from general and special correspondents in other cities are sent up as soon as they come to hand, and the clerks in the front office who have the business details of the establishment in charge, supply the composing room with advertisements. As the hour of going to press approaches, this "copy" is cut into short "takes," and divided among the compositors. The latter must pick up and place in their "composing sticks" every type separately. When the "sticks" are full they are emptied into "galleys," the contents of which are "proved," the proof must be read by a competent hand, and corrected; the matter must be revised and handed over to the foreman and his assistant; they must see to the proper arrangement of the "matter" in the "form," and to locking it up securely. The "forms" are then lowered into the basement, they are secured upon the cylinder of the lightning revolving press; the latter is set in motion, and the printed sheets, hot from the press, are soon in the hands of the carriers, in charge of messengers on their way to the railroad trains, or under the arms of nucleus who shout vociferously "here's the Evening Bulletin, second edition!"

There is a story extant of a certain farmer, who, after his boys had ploughed all day told them they might play at digging cellar by moonlight. This is about the kind of rest indulged in by newspaper folks after the paper has "gone to press." The compositors go to work at distributing "dead matter," or to get a start on next day's edition; the reporters play at attending meetings, conventions, &c., or at gathering materials for fancy local, and the editors amuse themselves by examining foreign correspondence or foreign papers, "reading up" for editorials, or by inditing such articles as those which we now bring to an end.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

NEWPORT DAILY NEWS.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 4, 1867

ON THE OUTSIDE OF THIS ISSUE—First Page—How a Newspaper is got up—Last Page—The Printer.

"One of the chief items of European news is the birth of another princess—the ninth child of Victoria."

An individual advent is unquestionably an era in his existence, and one's birth is presumed to have an astonishing influence on his future life and usefulness—this is true of us home-sick Republicans, but when a princess is born, when the royal mother of England perseveringly increases the number of her subjects by the addition of a ninth human unit, and that unit a Princess, why should not the entire nation toss up their hats and caps and Kossuths, and as with one voice shout forth "long live the Queen," and "God save Prince Albert?" John Phenix says that Albert's mother was a Dutchess and his father a Dutchman, and nobly has the house of Saxe Coburg sustained its ancestral dignity and original ways and means to transmit their name to posterity by multiplying that posterity itself. We would quietly propose as a Text for the christening sermon the words "Increase and multiply and replenish the earth"—with the preface that it has never been used on any of the eight preceding auspicious nativitcs.

Crowned heads are proverbially arrogant and assuming, but Victoria takes the lead in putting on heirs.

SUNDAY, yesterday, was really Summer-like; the air was soft and warm, and damp, reminding one of a July day. The land felt its influence, and enlarged perceptibility. Another day or two of genial warmth and the sun will unfold themselves to the bushes, and the shower, and bright winged birds, of song will flutter among the trees joyously.

Spring is come, and Summer is at hand, with its bustle, hurry and dust, and then the solitary and solemn Autumn, with its rich russet livery and its mournful songs.—But "sufficient for the day"—Spring is here. Let us rejoice and be glad.

The RELIGION of the ST. LOUIS EDITORS—We find the following in the St. Louis Herald in regard to the religion of the brethren of the press in that city. The Herald says:

The editor of the Leader is a Catholic;

the editor of the Democrat a Jew;

the editor of the Republican an old fogey;

the editor of the Anzeiger an Infidel, and the editor of the News a Mohammedan.

Spring is come, and Summer is at hand,

with its bustle, hurry and dust, and then the solitary and solemn Autumn, with its rich russet livery and its mournful songs.—

But "sufficient for the day"—Spring is here.

Let us rejoice and be glad.

An alarm of fire was given this morning, about 2 o'clock. The firemen were promptly at hand. It proved to be false.

THE PRINTERS.

The Belfast Mercury gives the following in relation to printers:

From high to low they are the same cunners, light-hearted, clever, well-informed, reckless fellows, knowing how to act better than they do—nothing at times—everything if the occasion requires or the fit takes them. No sooner are they comfortable in one town than they make tracks for another, even though they travel on "hair space" means. And to what will they not turn their hands? "We have seen," says the American editors, "one and the same individual of the craft a minister in California, a lawyer in Missouri, a sheriff in Ohio, a boatman in a western canal, sailing a privateer, and a pressman in a large printing office. Nor are the characters confined to any one country—they are everywhere the same. We have met them as leucographers, actors, traveling preacher, ventriloquist—in fact, everything. We have met on a tramp in this country members of this roving profession from all parts of the globe—Frenchmen, Spaniards, Portuguese, Germans and Swedes, and all apparently as much at home as in their own country.—Ardent lovers of liberty, king craft and priests find but little favor in their eyes. They are always with the people. When the Chartist excitement was raging in England, the most eloquent and spirited leaders in the movement were printers. When barricades were raised in Paris in 1848, the composers cast their type into bullets and fired them at the royalist troops. When the Americans were at war with Mexico, one of General Taylor's regiments was composed almost entirely of printers, and they were the bravest of his troops.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BOSTON, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.
Dr. J. C. AYER.—I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for the heat remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Indisposition, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. It is perfectly safe in every part, and a most valuable for the treatment of the disease, inasmuch as it passes entirely through it to pass over no virtue for the treatment of these complaints. EDEN KNIGHT, M.D.

A. B. MORLEY, Dr. of Utria, N.Y., writes: "I have used your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I could sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, Miss., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER:—Will you kindly tell me if your CHERRY PECTORAL is the best remedy for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HAROLD CONKLIN, M.D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., Monticello, Va., writes: "I have had a bad influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergymen. The first dose relieved the entire system, and I am now well again. Your Pectoral made me completely well. Your remedies are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your name as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisis, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvels in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., Ashton, Monroe Co., Iowa, writes: "Having no physician of many years, I have nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such an article."

We weighty add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtue of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human can reach; but even to those who are affected afford relief and comfort.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

ORTON HALL, NEW YORK CITY, March 4, 1856.

Dear Sir:—I send you a copy of my letter to you, in which I state my opinion of your CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its uses all around us speak the high merit of its virtues. —Philadelphia Ledger.

You with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO STIBBLE, or EXCELSIOR.

Consumers, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its uses all around us speak the high merit of its virtues. —Philadelphia Ledger.

LOTTERIES.—The well known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. France & Co. are the managers, are chartered by the State of Maryland, and a committee elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day in the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes in hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1.00 to $2.00. No tickets, however, sent unless the money accompanies the order.
